Take Charge Program Honored by Baltimore County Executive

(Forestville, Maryland) On January 16, 2012, Jerrod Mustaf, Executive Director of the Take Charge Juvenile Diversion Program, Inc., was presented an Executive Citation on behalf of Kevin Kamenetz, County Executive of Baltimore County, on the occasion of the Kings Landing Women's Service Club's 37th Annual Martin Luther King, Jr., Memorial Breakfast.

Take Charge Juvenile Diversion Program was honored with this prestigious award because of its efforts to reduce juvenile delinquency and gang activity, as well as the dedication to the welfare of the citizens in the state of Maryland.

Take Charge Program is a 501c3 non-profit specializing in juvenile prevention, intervention, and family strengthening programs. Created as an alternative to detention, school expulsion and suspension, the program focuses on cultural pride, family pride, and academic enhancement. Take Charge has been providing services to at-risk youth and their families in the Washington D.C. Metropolitan Area for over 20 years—assisting over 500 families annually.
